Short thought

Today we celebrate with great joy the gift of the Holy Spirit. For fifty days we have been in the beauty of the Easter season, thinking about how our God came down and reconciled us to Him, through Him, and in Him. I have heard a phrase that says, "we are an Easter people," and for me that means we remember the of death, resurrection, and Ascension of Jesus, but also in our own lives. It is a continual cycle which God works in us and the Holy Spirit is given to us to guide us through our journey as disciples and messengers of hope and love. Today is great day to commit ourselves afresh to our following of Jesus, to feel the anointing of the Father's love given through His Son wrapped in the fire and joy of the Holy Spirit. May we all be blessed on this day of Pentecost and may we all know our God deeper and fuller.
